Category: other-general

My client, an esteemed Industrial Machinery Manufacturer are looking for a Supply Chain Consultant and S&OP Professional, with experience in a global corporation. Please read the key responsibilities and desired traits.

Responsibilities:

Lead and facilitate local S&OP processes, coordinating cross-functional meetings to ensure alignment and decision-making.

Engage with suppliers to maintain effective communication channels and optimise supply chain efficiency.

Monitor and evaluate demand against forecast, analysing inventory flows, and building forecasting models to enhance accuracy.

Conduct monthly forecast maintenance and support management with risk assessment and mitigation activities.

Drive or participate in projects aimed at improving supply chain efficiency and reducing costs.

Act as the primary planner for a designated production area, ensuring high and stable delivery service.

Collaborate closely with Senior Supply Chain Managers, Production Planners, and Order Fulfilment representatives to coordinate activities and resolve issues.

Background & Skills:

Bachelor's degree in Supply Chain Management, Logistics, Operations, or Business Administration, or equivalent experience.

Previous experience in a similar role within Supply Chain or Production planning is preferred, but recent graduates with relevant degrees and high motivation are welcome to apply.

Strong mathematical and statistical skills, with the ability to analyse data and derive insights.

Structured, well-organised, and analytic mindset with a hands-on approach to problem-solving.

Proficiency with standard office tools such as PowerPoint, Word, and Excel.

Excellent written and verbal communication skills in English.

Experience with SAP, BW, and/or Power BI is advantageous.

Personal Attributes:

Self-driven and proactive with a demonstrated ability to take initiative.

Commitment to open-mindedness and effective collaboration across functions and cultures.

Strong attention to detail and a focus on delivering high-quality results.

If you like a challenge, and meet all the requirements, then please apply below!
